

AAAE 2027 Conference - Research Paper Proposals

AAAE seeks proposals from presenters of diverse backgrounds and ages who are at different stages of their careers. We encourage session proposals that showcase educators, researchers, scholars, and practitioners from a variety of academic institutions and organizations in the non-profit, profit, and public spheres, in the US and internationally, and welcome proposals from graduate and undergraduate students.

Presenters are invited to submit proposals for sessions in 30 or 60-minute slots, contingent on the number of speakers, which also includes 10 min for QA. Proposals from any related academic discipline may be submitted, as long as a case can be made for their relevance to the AAAE conference theme and/or areas of interest.

Please note that while individuals may participate in multiple submissions, successful applicants may have a maximum of two presentations per person across the conference program. For example, a solo paper and a collaborative presentation, two collaborative presentations, or a combination of one regular presentation (solo or collaborative) and a Pecha Kucha presentation are permissible. However, two solo paper presentations by the same person will not be allowed.

This is an in-person conference, but we may be able to accommodate a limited number of remote presentations, provided that at least one presenter is available to participate in person.

All proposals will undergo blind review based on the following evaluation criteria:

1. Quality/academic merit
2. Relevance to the theme
3. Relevance to the field
